Popular Pelco DVRs Now Integrated with SureView Immix Automation Software Platform

(M2 PressWIRE Via Acquire Media NewsEdge) Clovis, CA -- Pelco today announced the successful integration of its DX4500 and DX4600 digital video recorders into Immix SureView automation software platform, which delivers a single platform to manage video surveillance/CCTV, intrusion and fire alarms, access control, and VoIP audio.

According to Pelco management, the integration of the DX4500 and DX4600 DVRs is part of a strategic partnership between Pelco and SureView, where the full line of Pelco DVRs, IP cameras, and other security and surveillance equipment will be fully integrated into Immix. These integrations enable central stations and their integrators the confidence to deploy any of the Pelco products knowing that they will be fully supported within the Immix video monitoring platform.

"We are very pleased by this next step in the integration process of our IP products with the Immix solution," says Stephane Lantoine, API Business Development Manager for EMEA with Pelco.
